

FEDERAL TEACH GRANT

The Federal Teacher Education Assistance for College and Higher Education (TEACH) Grant Program can provide up to $4,000 per year in grants for graduate and undergraduate students, in specified majors, who intend to teach full-time in high-need subject areas for at least four years at schools classified as serving low-income students.

Students may receive up to $16,000 for undergraduate study and up to $8,000 for graduate study. Undergraduate students must be taking a full-time (12 credit hours) class load in order to be eligible. Graduate students are eligible if they are taking a part-time (3 credit hours) class load.

STUDENT ELIGIBILITY

To receive a TEACH Grant at the University of Dayton, you must meet all of the following requirements:

- Complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), although you do not have to demonstrate financial need.

- Have a cumulative GPA of at least 3.25 on college coursework to receive a grant for each subsequent term.

- Sign a TEACH Grant Agreement to Serve form.
- Complete the Entrance Counseling annually.

GRANT-BECOMES-LOAN PROVISION

If you receive a TEACH Grant but do not complete the required teaching service, as explained below, you will be required to repay the grants as a Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loan, with interest charged from the date of each TEACH Grant disbursement. Therefore, while students intending to teach can benefit from this grant money, accepting the TEACH Grant is unlike any other federal grant program and should be done only after much thought and planning.

To keep the grant from turning into a loan you must complete all of these requirements:

- Completion of a four-year teaching obligation within eight years of graduating.
- Annual documentation of teaching a qualified high-need subject area in a designated low-income serving school.
- Timely response to requests for information from the U.S. Department of Education while enrolled in school, following departure from school, and while teaching.
