INTERESTED IN BECOMING A DAYTON CIVIC SCHOLAR?
Fifteen students are selected at the end of their first year as UD students. They will spend the next three years in this program learning the leadership skills that will help them understand how to build community through sustaining lasting relationships with the greater Dayton community.

Mission Statement:
To prepare civic professionals and citizen leaders through sustained interdisciplinary civic engagement and scholarship with a focus on the city of Dayton.

WHAT WE DO:
* 60 hours of ongoing community engagement per semester
* Internships with local community partners
* Group Capstone Project in the city of Dayton
* 12 credit hours of related academic course work (including a weekly mini course)
* Build lasting relationships with local community leaders, nonprofit agencies, UD faculty & staff.
