

Beth Schwartz earned her Bachelor of Science in Human Resource Management from Miami University in 1988. Her first job was as a Payroll Specialist for Paychex, Inc., a company that processes payrolls and federal tax filings for small businesses. She worked for Paychex from 1988 through 1992. From Paychex, Beth went to work for the Dayton Power & Light Company, where she worked from 1992 through 1995 as a Human Resources Specialist working mainly with disability and retirement plans.

In 1995, Beth came to the University of Dayton's Human Resources Department. She also enrolled in graduate school at UD, and in short order completed her MBA. Beth is now UD's Benefits Manager and in that capacity is responsible for all faculty and staff benefits including health, life and disability insurance as well as retirement plans and various other benefits.

Beth has graciously lent her expertise to each year's Campus to Career conference because she wants to do all she can to ensure that UD students start off their professional lives making sound financial and benefits decisions.
