

Nancy D. Herin is an alumna of The University of Georgia in Athens, Georgia. She graduated in 2006 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Speech Communications and a minor in Theatrical Art. Upon graduation, she relocated to Washington, DC where she worked for several years as a legal recruiter. When her husband was accepted into the University of Dayton School of Law, she relocated with him and was immediately hired as a financial planners representative in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Nancy continued to search for a job that was both closer to home and more focused on her professional specialties, recruiting and human resources. To that end, Nancy joined Woolpert, Inc. in 2010 in their Human Resources Department, where she also served as an in-house recruiter.

Nancy found her "dream job" when she was hired by Dayton Children's Hospital in the spring of 2014 to be their Manager of Physician Relations. This position takes all of her client services, recruiting and relationship building skills to a new level. It also allows her to focus on her #1 passion in life – children! Becoming a mother in February 2014 has helped Nancy learn to balance work with being a mother and a wife. While having these titles comes with challenges, she welcomes what every day brings with an open mind and an enthusiasm for life.

Nancy is still able to be an active member of the Boonshoft Museum's Associate Board and enjoys time with friends, good food and being outdoors (when the weather is right!).
