Determine the courses you want your academic adviser to approve.

- To see what courses you need to take, you can view your degree audit through DegreeWorks (Porches > Flyer Student Services > Student Tools).
- In DegreeWorks, select the “Run Audit” button to see the most current information.

Meet with your academic adviser to discuss your course selections. Your adviser will give you an adviser approval code, which you need to complete registration.

At your assigned registration time, register for your approved classes (Porches > Flyer Student Services > Student Tools > Search and Register for Classes). Please note that the “Registration Status” section displays your registration date and shows any outstanding holds. Unresolved holds will prevent you from registering.

Register for classes using one of the following methods:

A. Add all courses to a worksheet
- Locate your preferred courses and click the box next to the preferred CRN (course registration number) to add it to your worksheet.
- Once you’ve selected all desired courses, submit your schedule.
- You will then be prompted to enter your adviser approval code.
  This method allows you to build your entire schedule at once; only after submitting the schedule will you see potential registration errors and closed classes.

B. Select and register for courses individually
- Click the “register” button each time you select a course.
- You will be prompted to enter your adviser approval code the first time you register for a class — or if you exit and log back in to Porches.
  This method of registering ensures you will have a seat in the class if no other errors or section closings prevent you from registering. This method is recommended when you are aware that space in a particular course is limited or close to being full.

You may change your classes online until the last day of the “add” period (Porches > Flyer Student Services > Student Tools > Add or Drop Classes).

Students are responsible for monitoring their own progress in completing requirements for graduation. Drops/adds that are made without discussion with your academic adviser may result in nonfulfillment of requirements and will not be corrected by substitutions and waivers.
