CROSSING BOUNDARIES – FAITH TRADITIONS
The course on faith traditions is designed to encourage students to better understand, reflect on, and place their own religious beliefs and experiences in a broader historical or cultural context. Courses satisfying the faith traditions component may be offered by any department provided that the courses incorporate some of the ideas from the introductory religious studies course and that they develop students’ ability to examine their own faith commitments and to participate in dialogue with other faith traditions. The courses will: 1) place religious traditions within their historical context; 2) examine their philosophical foundations or the internal logic of religious thought, language, and practice; 3) compare religious traditions by examining their philosophical foundations, historical origins, artistic expressions, canonical texts, and/or storied practices; or 4) examine a religious tradition with which students are unfamiliar (e.g., a non-Christian tradition).
Crossing Boundaries:
	Course will build on our strengths as a comprehensive Marianist university by engaging students and faculty across disciplinary lines and across academic units and by connecting with the Catholic intellectual tradition.
	The institutional learning goals related to faith traditions, diversity, practical wisdom, critical evaluation of our times, and vocation are particularly important for crossing boundaries courses.
	Course will draw from relevant interdisciplinary knowledge as well as an understanding of the professions and social institutions.
	Challenges students and faculty to link aspects of their own lives, majors, and careers to a broader world within and outside academia.
	Emphasizes the centrality of theology and philosophy, the importance of linking faith and reason, the integration of knowledge, and the application of that knowledge to personal and social situations in the world today.
Must address all of the following:
	The course on faith traditions is designed to encourage students to better understand, reflect on, and place their own religious beliefs and experiences in a broader historical or cultural context.
