

Isidore Tip - Releasing Student Grades

The Situation

You've collected your students' assignments online and graded them but now students are saying they can't see their grades or your comments. The grades aren't showing up in the Gradebook tool either.

What's Happening?

There is a good chance that you haven't released the grades to the students yet. When grading a student's work (in the Assignments tool) you have two choices at the bottom of the screen.

The Save button stores the grade but not release it to the student. Many instructors like to 'Save' each student's grade as they work through everyone's submissions so that they can return everyone's work to them at the same time.

The Return Assignment to Student button will lock the grade in and release it back to the student immediately.

The screenshot shows a grading interface with the following elements:

- A label "Grade:" followed by an empty text input field and the text "(max 50.0)".
- A checkbox labeled "Allow Resubmission" which is currently unchecked.
- A row of four buttons: "Save" (highlighted in blue), "Return Assignment to Student", "Preview", and "Cancel".

If you choose to 'Save' the grades during the grading process you need to make sure that you click on the "Release Grades" link. This will put a check mark in the "Release" column, ensuring that students are able to view their grades as shown below.
